Feb. 19 - Robert Farrell, Teacher: “My life has been a journey in which I have learned what I have done well and where I could have done better. Through it all I have often seen God's hand, but I still have many questions. I consider myself a full-time scholar and searcher.”

Feb. 26 - Ben Kieruff, Special Education Teacher: “A thoughtful and reflective exploration of life grounded in love, broadened by curiosity, deepened by faith, enriched by exploration and then touched by loss. At that point, the real journey began. “

March 5 - Dr. Jackie Trischmann, Professor of Chemistry & Bio-Chemistry at CSU San Marcos: “My motto at work is ‘We have a stronger urge to edit than to create.’ God inspires me to create... and to edit. I look to others for inspiration and about trying to recognize those times when someone needs to do something and that someone could be me.”

March 12 - Sharon Ross, Retired Executive Director of Donate Life San Diego “My mom died with my grandfather in a terrible car crash when I was 20 months old. I was the only one not hurt in the crash. I will be updating her on all lessons I’ve learned and the questions I wish she could have helped me with.”

March 19 - Rev. Tom Truscott, Retired Ministry PCUSA, “A long standing interest in the everyday needs, concerns, and interests of people has challenged me to apply the Biblical message to the practical issues of daily life.”

March 26 - Jennifer Roberts, Licensed Clinical Social Worker, Department of Veterans Affairs, “I have learned to trust in God that my path may be not necessarily what I would have chosen for myself, but what God knows was best for me.
