

Ryan has spent most of her professional life working in hospitality and in the world of theater. She was able to translate her passion for creativity to social media, event planning, and fundraising for nonprofits over the last two decades. First and foremost, Ryan is a people person who thrives on building a solid community and long-term relationships.

Ryan and her family love spending time at Balboa Park, working with their rescue dog, and trying new restaurants that are accessible via public transportation #215tour. Ryan has shared that she is thrilled to have the opportunity to work for KCC.
